

PUPILS TO VOTE A STATE FLOWER

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO DECIDE
THE STATE EMBLEM.

CONTEST ON ARBOR DAY

Four Plants Receiving Highest Number of Votes Will Be Entered for Final Contest.

Wisconsin school children will express their choice for a state flower on Arbor day this year.

The result of the vote will be sent into the state superintendent's office not later than June 8 and the four flowers receiving the highest vote this year will be voted upon next year when the choice will be considered final. This vote is being arranged under direction of C. L. Harper, of the state superintendent's office. A few years ago a similar vote was taken by the school children of the state regarding trees and the choice was in favor of the maple.

Start Study Back in 1893

As far back as 1893, through the unparaleled efforts of the school authorities and teachers of the state, a careful study of our common trees was made by many of the school children, and as a result a list of trees to be studied in this course of study was decided to have a vote taken to determine which should be the state tree of Wisconsin. Nearly all of the school children were very much interested in the election and naturally enough were anxious to learn as many of the characteristics of the common trees as possible in order that they might vote intelligently. Children from nearly four thousand schools voted with the result that from a total of 123,653 votes cast, the maple received 52,211, the oak 31,623, the pine 13,590, the elm 16,928, with the remainder scattered.

It has been proposed that the school children of the state be given a similar opportunity to select a state flower. Mr. Harper, who is very much interested in the schools and school children of the state, has general charge of the election. Mr. Harper has taught district schools, served as county superintendent of schools, and is now assisting in the office of the state superintendent. He is a lover of nature and is very much interested in the choice of a Wisconsin state flower.

List is Submitted

Under his direction the following list of candidates has been chosen: trailing arbutus, wild aster, large blue flag, wild columbine, wild crabapple blossom, golden rod, lady's slipper, American Turk's-cap, lily, riverwort (Hepatica), marsh marigold (cow-slip), painted cup, purple flower, wild rose, shooting star, violet, wild sweet William, wake robin (trillium), and white water lily.

Commenting upon his list of nominees, Mr. Harper recently wrote: "It is believed that the accompanying list of well-known flowers is large enough for the purpose of making a selection. The privilege is accorded, however, of voting for flowers not on the list; that is, to make individual nominations. It is proposed that the high and graded, parochial and one-room country schools, shall have an opportunity to express themselves in making the choice by a vote to be taken on Arbor and Bird day, May 8, 1908.

All People May Vote

Teachers, parents and friends, who may be present at the Arbor day exercises, should also vote. The colleges and normal schools of the state are also asked to take an active interest in this matter. Should the school, for any reason, not be in session on Arbor day, then the vote may be taken on the day preceding Arbor day, or, if the school is not then in session on the next day when school is in session after Arbor day.

The result of the balloting must be certified to the office of state superintendent on or before June 8, 1908. The vote will, however, be informal. The four flowers which receive the highest number of votes this year are to be voted upon for final choice on Arbor day, 1909.

Final Ballot in 1909

Although the ballot on Arbor day this year is to be an informal one, it is proposed that all teachers shall interest their pupils in making an intelligent choice just as much as they would in making a choice for president or governor. In order that this may be brought about, it is suggested that general discussions should be had, and that in cases where two or more boys and girls are in favor of the selection of some one flower and two or more in favor of some other, debates shall be arranged for an opportunity to champion the beauties and virtues of their particular choice. Interest may be added to the debates by having judges appointed to decide which side makes the best debate, which side makes the best choice, and which flower is to be chosen. Compositions or essays, songs, readings, and declamations should all be made use of as aids in bringing about intelligent results.

LAW VERY CLEAR AS TO SALOON KEEPERS

New Statute Says That Saloon Men Must Be Citizens of the United States.

Are any of Janesville's saloonkeepers not citizens of the United States? City Clerk Rudger has not investigated the matter as yet, but a new state law, which goes into effect in July, may force some of the saloonkeepers of Janesville to go out of business because of a lack of citizenship. The council after the first Tuesday in July will be powerless to grant a license to anyone who is not a full-fledged citizen of the United States and possessed of local citizenship. Already saloonmen are beginning to look into the act, passed at the last session of the legislature, known as chapter 188.

Not Able to Qualify.

No saloonkeeper, who is not now a citizen of the United States, will be able to qualify before the second Tuesday of September, unless special arrangements are made with the circuit judge and the United States district attorney's office in Madison. Names of applicants for citizenship must be posted three months before the hearing on the matter for second papers. Even though an application for his second papers, he would be unable to obtain a hearing before the September term of the circuit court as the rules now stand.

Statute is Very Explicit.

The statute is very plain and explicit and the legislature had in mind the elevating of the ordinary saloon. The Wisconsin statute prohibiting the granting of liquor licenses to foreigners, reads as follows:

"From and after the first Tuesday in July, 1908, no license to sell, deal or traffic in malt, ardent spirits or intoxicating liquor shall be granted or issued to any person not a full citizen of the United States and of this state and of the town, village or city in which such license is applied for, nor shall any such license be granted or issued to any person who has been convicted of any offense against the laws of this state punishable by imprisonment in the state prison."

"WELL-FARGO" IS ROBBED.

Express Company Loses $63,000 in Mexican Coin Near Torreon.

Laredo, Tex., May 2.—The Wells-Fargo Express company has reported to the authorities of Torreon, Mex., a loss of $63,000 in Mexican currency which they claim was taken from a through safe on their City of Mexico train. The money was consigned to one of the banks of Chihuahua. Two arrests have been made in Torreon, although it is not believed by the officials here that the men arrested have the money. It appears that one of the agents of the company boarded the express train at a station between the City of Mexico and Torreon, and afterwards leaving the train. It is said that he was the only man who was in the car who knew the combination of the safe. He has not yet been apprehended.

ROBBERS GOT ONLY $600.

Pennsylvania Train Bandits Not Yet Caught by Detectives.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 2.—Officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad company and the Adams Express company Friday night had but little more accurate information on the daring robbery of the express car on the fast New York-St. Louis express at Walker's Mills. Just beyond the city limits of Pittsburg, train was given them in the first report of the theft telegraphed when the train reached Stenleville, O.

It is now pretty well established that the robbers did not get over $600, of which $447.71 was in currency in several small packages of merchandise, presumably jewelry.

CIGAR INDIAN IS DOOMED.

Guthrie, Ok.—Senator Landrum, a Cherokee Indian, has introduced a bill in the state legislature prohibiting the use of Indian figures as cigar or tobacco signs.

The bill is certain to become a law, as all political parties consider the large Indian vote to hold the balance of power. The bill provides a fine of $50 and six months imprisonment for any person who uses an Indian figure, no matter for what purpose, or who has such figure in his possession.

Senator Landrum stated that the Indians are on the warpath against the practice of using their images.

A MYSTERY EXPLAINED.

DR. ROBERT KOCH AND HIS WORK IN SOLVING THE "SLEEPING SICKNESS."

The United States is entertaining Dr. Koch just now during his trip around the world. Dr. Koch is very modest and retiring and no one would realize from his appearance that he is one of the most successful bacteriologists in the world.

Dr. Koch gained his international reputation in 1882, when he succeeded in locating the tubercle bacillus. Up to that time it had thought that consumption of the lungs was due to a degeneration of the tissue. It was regarded as being almost as hopeless for a consumptive to recover as for a maimed man to recover his lost limb. Dr. Koch showed that consumption is not due to degeneration of tissue, but to the attack of an infective germ. From this the modern system of treating consumption has grown up.

In the following year the cholera came to Europe. Koch was placed at the head of a commission by the German government to investigate the scourge. First he went to the infected regions of eastern Europe, and then he went on to those parts of India where cholera is endemic. Month by month he closely studied it. In other words, he daily ran the risk of the most horrible death. In tracking disease this quiet German has shown a heroism and fearlessness greater by far than that of the soldier on the battlefield. For the prospect ever before him in his researches has been, not swift death by a chance bullet or disease. The cholera bacillus was found and the government made him a present of 100,000 marks.

During the past few years Dr. Koch has devoted himself to the so-called "sleeping sickness" of the South Africa, which is devastating the country and yearly claims thousands of natives.

During his investigations in South Africa Dr. Koch was under commission by the German government. Dr. Koch took with him a staff of expert chemists and bacteriologists, and lived in the heart of the infected districts. His investigations there are not complete, and he will probably return to Africa as soon as his year's tour of the world is over.

SECRETARY WILSON AND HIS NEW OFFICE AT WASHINGTON.

Washington, D. C.—The staunch professor of agriculture in the Iowa Scotchman, James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, is a practical farmer. His home is in Tracer, Tama county, eleven years and during that time Iowa. He was born in Ayrshire, Scotland, nearly seventy-three years ago. In 1852 he came to the United States, settled in Connecticut with his parents and three years later moved to Iowa, where he has since been engaged in farming. Mr. Wilson has served his state in the general assembly, being speaker of the house during one session; later he represented his state as representative in Washington. In 1870 he was made agent of the state university and for six years previous to becoming secretary of agriculture he was director of the agricultural experiment station and to Washington's architecture.

PITCHING MACHINE

The above picture shows one of the new pitching machines in the United States. While these machines have never proven a great success, they have the principles for a very great innovation in developing baseball teams and in the future will undoubtedly become a necessity for every team. The above picture is the machine the Giants tried out at their spring practice a couple of years ago. While it did not fill the bill entirely, still all of the men were enthusiastic over its possibilities.

THE PHONOGRAPH

THE Phonograph would never become the great popular entertainer it is but for Edison. He made it desirable by making it good; he made it popular by making it inexpensive.

The EDISON PHONOGRAPH

has brought within reach of all, entertainment which formerly only people of means could afford. It has even displaced more expensive amusements in homes where expense is not considered.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

"All honor to him who shall win the prize."

The world has cried for a thousand years;

But to him who tries and who falls and dies

I give great honor and glory and tears.

Oh! great is the hero who wins a name,

But greater many and many a time

Some pale-faced fellow who dies in shame.

And let God finish the thought sublime.

And great is the man with a sword undrawn,

And good is the man who refrains from wine;

But the man who falls and still fights on,

Lo! he is the twin-born brother of mine.

—Joachim Miller.

Mr. Miller struck a popular chord,

when he wrote these lines, for they express human weakness, and create in the heart of discouraged humanity, a bond of fellowship. Yet sympathy, of this sort, is sometimes overdone, when crime becomes a virtue, and

the criminal a hero.

This was the case when Debs, in the Haymarket riot, expressed sympathy for the anarchist and Debs himself was whined and dined while in the jail at Woodstock, and invited to speak in a prominent Chicago pulpit, the Sunday after he was released.

There is just now being published a magazine called "Tomorrow," which has no particular reason for existence, and yet it appears to flourish.

The May number is largely devoted to the young Russian anarchist, Averplot, and the city authorities were wise in attempting to forestall her efforts.

The trouble in Chicago, and other large cities, is not in suppressing anarchy, but in dealing with intelligent people, who are in sympathy with it. The tendency of the age is socialistic, and this imported doctrine is finding root rapidly, in American soil.

Its near disciples, who do not like to be branded as socialists, talk about "predatory wealth," "the handful of millionaires," "confederation of property," under the guise of equal distribution by law. Anarchy discusses the same topics, but advocates confiscation by force.

The effects of the panic are just now being felt severely in the industrial world, and thousands of people are idle. An effort is made to encourage the belief that factories might be running full time, with no reduction in wages if capital did not interfere.

The socialistic magazine referred to lends itself to this work and publishes the following threat under the title, "The Warning of the Unemployed":

"Masters and Rulers, take warning—we're men;

The blood in our veins came down from the past;

We've hearts, and they're human, forgiving, but when

Aroused to the limit rebel to the last.

"Your factories are idle, your larders are filled—

The specters of Pandæ stand not at your door;

Great wheels wait our turning, broad land to be filled,

Still, we are hungry, and idle, and poor.

"We ask not for fortunes, fine living, and wine,

Automobiles, steam yachts and the rest;

"We only to labor all day, then to find

Family waiting—meal ready—this our request.

"It is not charity, kings, that we ask—

The months of our children, indeed must be fed,

But we, strong and willing, stand alert for the task—

Beware! We may not o'er the bodies of the dead."

The sentiment expressed is more popular today, in this country, than at any time in history, and this is true because the "capitalistic class" has been so thoroughly and persistently denounced, that many people have come to believe that capital is an enemy to labor, and is now engaged in a warfare of spite.

The little factory is out of a job, because there is nothing for it to do, and the little man is out of work for the same reason. The only law that regulates, in either case, is the law of supply and demand. Neither can create demand, where it does not exist.

It is idle to discuss the causes which led to the present stagnation. Loss of money and loss of confidence destroyed prosperity, and time alone will restore normal conditions.

The man who is taken out of the gutter and promoted to manhood, is entitled to every encouragement, and the man who falls and struggles on, as Mr. Miller suggests, represents a class that appeals to sympathy, but the man who never descended to the gutter, and who never was guilty of crime, is also entitled to consideration, for he represents the rank and file in every community.

It is well to remember that success is not measured in the monetary scale, and also that the average toiler in every channel, who performs his work faithfully, is a successful worker.

The average housewife, burdened with the drudgery of everyday life, keeping the home happy and cheerful, is a successful toiler. The failures referred to by Mr. Miller are the exception and not the rule. They are well described in this little sentiment from an exchange:

"Then his horse went dead and his mule went lame,

And he lost six cows in a poker game;

Then a hurricane came on a summer day

And blew the house where he lived away;

And an earthquake came when that was gone

And swallowed the land that the house stood on.

Then the tax collector, he came round

And charged him up with the hole in the ground."

BOULEVARD ON WHICH THE BRAZILIAN GOVERNMENT HAS SPENT MANY MILLIONS OF DOLLARS. BRAZIL IS ONE OF THE RICH AND AGGRESSIVE COUNTRIES OF THE WORLD.

The following article upon Brazil, its country is a plateau. There may be heights of 5,000 to 6,000 feet, but the extensive inland of the republic is hill and valley, with a temperate climate well suited for the homes of all races. The elevation of 2,000 to 4,000 feet neutralizes the proximity to the tropics of Capricorn and the abundance of water from the many rivers intersecting the land, assures against drought and at the same time furnishes power for all modern improvements.

The southern third of Brazil is altogether within the temperate zone. Here cattle are grown, and here, when the western portions of the country are brought under cultivation, all grains, and fruits will flourish as in Missouri.

Up the Amazon, 1,000 miles to Manaus, 1,000 miles further to Iquitos in Peru, stretch the forests that are part of Brazil's riches. These are innumerable, because they are in the tropics, where a new vegetation springs up as an older one is attacked. After rubber comes cacao, for the devoted rubber areas seem well adapted for the less native plant. These forests, however, they are full of dye woods, of generations to come, will furnish building and furniture material to relieve our forests of the demands upon them. Along the coast is an immense sugar and cotton region. Brazil exports sugar, and whenever the call is made upon her, she can supply this food to a large part of the world.

This northern third of the republic may be broadly entitled the Amazon basin. Further south, in the middle third, is the great coffee district. Brazil exported last year $125,000,000 of coffee, more than half the world's supply. The United States took half of this crop. The states of Rio de Janeiro, Minas, Goias and São Paulo are rich with coffee plantations, yet the land, still uncultivated, is capable of producing food for millions of people. This is a point little appreciated by the North American.

Brazil is by no means a mountainous country, even compared with Mexico and Central America. Back of the range skirting the coast the Goosepits in Russia.

In Russia pits for cock fighting are unknown, but "goosepits" some 60 years ago were common throughout that mighty kingdom. The effect of this can be seen today in the geese which are indigenous to the country, the Aransas and the "Tah" varieties particularly showing to a marked degree the fighting characteristics of their ancestors. The Aransas gander has a bill which is entirely different in form from that of the geese known in any other part of the world. This special structure enables the bird to take a firm hold on the neck or back of its antagonist.

Scene and Circumstances.

When a noble act is done—perchance in a scene of great natural beauty; when Leonidas and his 300 martyrs consume one day in dying, and the sun and moon come each and look at them once in the steep dells of Thermopylae; when Arnold Winkelried, in the high Alps, under the shadow of the avalanche, gathers in his side a sheaf of Austrian spears to break the line for his comrades; are not these heroes entitled to add the beauty of the scene to the beauty of the deed?—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

THE PETTICOATS were bought direct from a manufacturer who had about 300 dozen on hand, made of a silk finished, Rustling Taffeta, which he bought under price; a taffeta having much the appearance of Heatherblooms. Trade being a little slow and to get ready money he made a bargain figure for a fair quantity and we said "they are ours."

DESCRIPTION: 3 yards around the bottom, 12 inch flounce, 5 rows of cording, finished with dust ruffle, colors brown, reseda, light blue, heliotrope, French gray, cardinal, gun metal, hunters green, navy, pink, tan. They will go quick at$1.19

MANY HERE FOR THE CONVENTION

OVER SIXTY DELEGATES ARE PRESENT.

IS 16TH ANNUAL SESSION

First Meeting 'Wan Held In Baptist Church Last Evening—Rev. Webster Spoke.

Over sixty delegates and many visitors are in the city today for the sixteenth annual gathering of the Southern Wisconsin Christian Endeavor convention which opened at the Baptist church last evening. While it was expected that most of the delegates would arrive this morning over thirty had come in last evening and the convention held fair to be the largest and best held yet.

At the opening session last evening after devotional and song service, A. E. Mathews, welcomed the visitors and O. M. Jones of Beloit, vice president of the district, spoke in response. Owing to the inability of the Rev. Clyde McGee of Clinton to be present, Rev. J. L. Webster of Evansville gave the main address of the evening. His subject was "Training For Service."

He said in part that our lives were primarily spiritual and secondarily physical. In elaborating on this theme he explained that without the spirit we could have no physical life and though at first glance the physical side would seem to be the strongest closer investigation would show that the spiritual side of life was the predominant side. "Spiritual struggles therefore were the best training. Today the meetings were held in the Presbyterian church and opened at nine o'clock with a quiet hour led by the Rev. L. W. Kellogg. At ten o'clock Rev. W. L. Lewis of Whitewater gave an address on the subject "The Boy Question in Christian Endeavor." He treated of the problem of getting boys interested in the work of the society and through that as they got a little order in the work of the church. His address was very good and gave some good ideas in regard to this great problem.

At 10:15 Rev. L. A. Parr of Edgerton spoke on "Practical Work Among Our Young People." His subject was in the same general line as that of Rev. W. L. Lewis and treated of the question of getting the young people interested in Christian work when they became a little older. Both addresses were exceedingly helpful and were closely listened to by those present.

This afternoon at two o'clock the juniors and intermediates held their rally with Miss Nellie M. Peck of Clinton, junior superintendent of this district and Miss Lydia Pascoe, of Janesville, intermediate superintendent, acting as leaders. Both Miss Peck and Miss Pascoe gave their reports showing the condition of the work in the two branches of the society. A musical and literary program was given and Mrs. Deulson gave a very interesting talk.

Later in the afternoon Rev. Frank Sheets of Rockford and "Rev. J. T. Doane, principal of Beloit Academy, spoke.

This evening after the business meeting which began at 7:30 there will be given a reception for the delegates at the Presbyterian church. An interesting program of music and speaking will be given and light refreshments will be served.

Sunday morning there will be no regular session of the convention and all the delegates will attend the various church services. In the afternoon Rev. E. A. Ralph will address the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. and at 6:15 will be held the Endeavor meeting at the Congregational church with Alfred Godfrey of Whitewater as leader. Devotional exercises at 7:30 and an address by the Rev. W. A. Rowell of Beloit at eight o'clock at the Congregational church will close the convention.

A Large Amount of Cemetery Work Done by Mrs. Bennett in the Past Week.

One of the best monuments of St. Cloud granite both as to material and workmanship ever erected in Oak Hill cemetery was placed this last week upon the Hartmann lot. It will bear the inspection of the most critical judges. There have also been set about twenty pieces of granite markers and monuments all of which are perfect in every way, the stock being the best that money can procure and the lettering is excellent. Mrs. Bennett has the largest assortment of granite in the city and those wishing anything in her line will do well to call and inspect her work.

RED HOT STOVE SET MEAT AFIRE

And Resulting Smoke Was Responsible for Alarm Sent in from Tenement House on Franklin St.

A roast of beef, lighted by a red hot stove in the tenement house on Franklin street owned by Dr. J. F. Pomber was responsible for an alarm of fire about half-past ten o'clock this morning. The smoke from the burning roast frightened a woman who claimed to be the only occupant of that part of the dwelling and through her instrumentality the department was summoned. Excepting the scorched meat, no great damage was done.

OPENED FIRE ON A LAUNCH PARTY

That is the Charge Preferred Against Fred Edwards—Dr. Holtsapple's Stolen Row-boat Recovered.

With the opening of navigation, troubles have already commenced on the river. Today, on complaint of George Rogers and Charles Ripley, a warrant for the arrest of Fred Edwards was issued.

The complainants allege that they and a third party were arranging to tow a row-boat with a launch one day this week when Edwards commanded them from the bank to leave the row-boat alone as it belonged to him. Assuring him that he must be mistaken and that the row-boat belonged to them or was in their charge, the party proceeded to carry out their plans. Whereat, according to their allegations, Edwards shot at them with a rifle.

Boat "Drifted" Up River.

A week ago yesterday a canoe party, passing by Dr. J. M. Holtsapple's boat-house on the west side of the river above the dam, noticed that the doors opening on the river were swung out and that the staff where he had kept a valuable lighted row-boat was empty. Upon making investigations, Dr. Holtsapple found that the lock on the shore-door to the shelter had been broken and complained to the police. Officer Peter Chapman located the missing craft yesterday on the Haney premises on Ashland street. A nineteen-year-old youth named Haney was industriously repainting the boat. In response to inquiries he said that the boat had drifted ashore above the second sandbar and that when no one appeared to claim it, he had removed it to his home. The boy was quite willing to surrender the property.

May Requires Police Boat.

These incidents seem to indicate that the Janesville Police boat should make some provision for policing the river as well as enforcing the ordinance requiring lights on the launches after dark and getting the nets out of the channel.

COURT UNABLE TO FIX THE PENALTY

This Morning in the Case of Six-foot Burglar Who Claims He Was Starving and Nerve Would Give Him Food.

Frank Holman, the six-foot Polish burglar who was arrested by Officer Thomas Morrissey while trying to break into J. L. Spellman's cigar store, appeared in municipal court this morning and through an interpreter, Clarence Nowak, entered a plea of guilty to the charge preferred against him. He insisted that except for some corn meal which he found in a barn, he had had no food for three days; though that he had begged for something to eat and had invariably met with resistance; and that finally the sight of bread in the window of the bakery adjoining the Spellman place of business had driven him to a desperate attempt to get the wherewithal to appease his hunger. He gave a plausible explanation of his possession of the trunk keys, the bent spoke, the bit of candle, and the other articles which seemed to belong to the bit of a lock-picker, but his insistence that a little memorandum book which bore the name of a party in Darden was given to him in a Chicago boarding-house failed to convince the court. Holman is 23 years old and came to this country thirteen months ago from Russia where he lived on a farm. It took him five days to walk from Chicago to Janesville and he claims to have been on his way to Madison, where he had heard he could obtain work. His shoes were tattered remnants and his whole appearance is of a man who has had hard luck for constant company a long time. Judge Pilsbald was unable to determine what ought to be done with him and even hesitated about sending him to the Green Bay reformatory. Pending a decision sentence was suspended until Monday morning.

FIVE MOTIONS WERE DECIDED BY JUDGE

Jury Verdict Set Aside in the Action of Baldwin vs. the Rockford & Interurban Co.

Decisions in several cases which had been taken under advisement were transmitted here by telephone from Jefferson by Circuit Judge George Grimm this afternoon.

In the case of Otto C. Baldwin vs. the Rockford & Interurban Co., the motion to set aside the verdict and for a new trial was granted on the grounds that the verdict was perverse and contrary to the instructions of the court relating to the assignment of damages. A new trial is granted and the case is to abide by the result of the action.

The motion for a modification of the findings in the case of Han vs. Brumhofer is denied.

The motion to set aside the verdict and for a new trial in the case of Frank Rables vs. the J. Thompson & Sons Mfg. Co. is also denied.

FLEET AT ANCHOR IN MONTEREY BAY

CITIZENS BEGIN ENTERTAINING
THE BLUEJACKETS.

ENTRY AT FRISCO PLANNED

Passage of United Atlantic and Pacific
Fleets Through Golden Gate
Will Be Stirring Spectacle.

Monterey, Cal., May 2.—The Atlantic fleet of battleships steamed in here Friday to give Monterey peninsula a place in the history of the American navy's record-breaking cruise around the world. The residents of Monterey and Pacific Grove and all the other settlements of the vicinity made the occasion of the arrival a holiday. They lined the water front when the fleet dropped anchor at six o'clock in the morning and lingered long to view the beautiful marine spectacle of the 16 ships drawn up in divisional formation—four lines of four ships each with the flagship Connecticut, Georgia, Alabama and Missouri at the heads of the columns.

A great variety of entertainments ashore, both for the men and the officers of the fleet, marked the first day of the battleship's stay and the visit of the squadron promises to be a thoroughly enjoyable one.

Entry at Frisco to Be Fine.

New orders were issued covering the entry of the fleet through the Golden Gate into San Francisco bay on Wednesday next. The revised plans provide for the most picturesque naval display in the history of the nation. It is now ordered that all of the vessels of the Pacific fleet shall join the Atlantic battleships outside the Golden Gate and steam with them through the harbor entrance to the anchorage in the bay where the review of the navy is to be held. Practically the entire fighting force of the navy, with the exception of a few newly-commissioned ships in the east and a few gunboats in Philippine waters, will be in the great column of white and buff vessels that thread their way between the headlands of the gateway—Point Bonita on the north and Point Lobos on the south.

Forty-six vessels will be in line and the long column will stretch as far out to sea as the eye can see. The variety of fighting craft will range from the massive 16,000-ton Connecticut down to the little destroyer Fox of only 154 tons. Battleships, armored cruisers, protected cruisers, gunboats, destroyers, torpedo boats and auxiliaries—in fact every class of vessel in the navy save the obsolete monitors—will be represented in this remarkable parade through the famous port entry.

Evans Will Be on Flagship.

The steaming of the ships through the Golden Gate will be a far more impressive and enduring picture than the review at anchor which is to be held two days after the arrival, on Friday next. Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans will be either on the bridge of the Connecticut or in the emergency cabin where he commands a full view of the fleet, in entering San Francisco bay. Strict orders for a fair way for the host of naval vessels have been issued by the department of commerce and labor at Washington, and the scores of excursion steamers that will take crowds out to Angel Island and beyond to view the spectacle will be under close federal supervision. Revenue cutters and naval launches will patrol the pathway and keep excursion and pleasure craft out of danger.

The hour of rendezvous outside the Golden Gate—probably at the San Francisco lightship—has been fixed for nine a. m. on Wednesday next, May 6. Three hours later, or as near noon as the calculations of the navigators can compute the broad white bows of the Connecticut will appear within the gateway.

GREAT GASOLINE BLAST.

One Man Killed and Eight Missing in Chicago Explosion.

Chicago, May 2.—One man was killed, eight are missing and five were seriously injured as the result of a gasoline tank explosion and a spectacular fire at the plant of the Chicago Reduction company, Thirty-Ninth and Iron streets, Friday night.

Naphtha released from immense tanks by a safety valve arrangement formed a lake 80 feet across beside the blazing building. The naphtha caught fire, and the burning lake covered with lurid flames gave to the scene a weird and inferno-like suggestiveness.

Woman Indicted for Perjury.

Toledo, O., May 2.—Miss Mary McMurray, for 11 years stenographer and confidential clerk for the Canton Bridge company, was indicted by the grand jury at Lima Friday, charged with perjury. For two years she has been wanted as a witness in the prosecution of the bridge trust. She gave detailed evidence Thursday which was declared to be false by the prosecutor and her indictment followed. She was arrested and released on bond.

Washington Editor Dies.

St. Paul, Tex., May 2.—C. Arthur Williams, associate editor of the Washington (D. C.) Herald, died here Friday of tuberculosis. His health failed while he was in attendance at the Jamestown exposition for the Herald last year.

WAR CLOUDS VERY HEAVY

HONDURAS SAID TO BE ABOUT TO ATTACK GUATEMALA.

Situation in Latter Country Is Critical
—Rich and Powerful Families Against Cabrera.

Panama, May 2.—It is reported that Honduras is concentrating her forces on the Guatemalan frontier. Passengers who have arrived here recently from Guatemala say that a revolution was being planned against the Honduran government by Gen. Domingo Vazquez, ex-president of Honduras, who is supposed to have the support of Guatemala.

This, they say, was the reason why Senor Bustillos, finance minister of Honduras, was sent on a special confidential mission to President Cabrera of Guatemala, and why Cabrera, instead of treating with Bustillos, practically imprisoned him in Guatemala City.

After the latest war with Nicaragua, Honduras was left entirely disarmed and should the reports of the Honduran military movements prove true it is supposed that Nicaraguans and Salvadoreans have furnished her with munitions of war.

The situation in Guatemala is reported to be exceedingly critical. The passengers say that among the persons reported to have been executed there were Mrs. Castaneda and Mrs. Illanes and Messrs. Herrera, Trigueros, Eduardo Rubio and Antonio Rubio, all of whom belonged to prominent wealthy Central American families. During the past year all these persons had been incarcerated in the dungeons of the penitentiary in Guatemala City, and the passengers say that it was impossible for them to have participated in the recent attempt on the life of President Cabrera. They add that the executions were considered cruel and unnecessary and that the relatives of those persons put to death, who are rich and powerful, will not rest until they have succeeded in bringing about the downfall of Cabrera.

ROW IN OKLAHOMA HOUSE.

Representative and the Speaker At-most Come to Blows.

Guthrie, Okla., May 2.—In the house here Friday Speaker William Murray and Representative Vandevanter of Bartlesville came close to having a fist fight, that was prevented by the intervention of Representative Ellis and Chief Clerk Pittman.

It was some day in the house, but the time was given up to house measures. Vandevanter protested and became so insistent that the speaker ordered him to sit down. Vandevanter refused to obey and defied the sergeant-at-arms. Speaker Murray finally said he was tired of seeing the "member from Bartlesville make a fool of himself," when Vandevanter advanced toward the speaker. The speaker dropped his gavel and squared himself but Ellis and Pittman intervened and quieted the men before blows were struck.

RISK CONCERN IS ATTACKED.

Michigan Attorney General Asks Receiver for Accident Association.

Detroit, Mich., May 2.—Attorney General Hild Friday filed in the Wayne circuit court a bill asking for a receiver for the American Health and Accident association of this city and for an annulment of its charter and an injunction to prevent the company from collecting any more money. Judge Hosmer ordered the company to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed.

President Pyre of the company says he knows nothing of the action begun by the attorney general and declares that the company's affairs are in good condition. He says the company has arranged to amalgamate with the United States Accident association and begin business next Monday under the title of that concern.

BANK PRESIDENT A SUICIDE.

Morgan D. Magee of Manassquan, N. J., Shoots Himself.

Manassquan, N. J., May 2.—Morgan Delaney Magee, president of the First National bank of Manassquan, killed himself Friday by firing a bullet into his head, while standing on a dyke in the Manassquan inlet. His body was found lying on the spillops. He evidently planned that it should fall into the water and be carried out to sea by the falling tide.

When the death of President Magee became known the bank closed its doors by order of John Terhune and James Terhune, the principal stockholders and directors of the institution. It is believed that the affairs of the bank can be examined by Monday, when it is planned to re-open the institution.

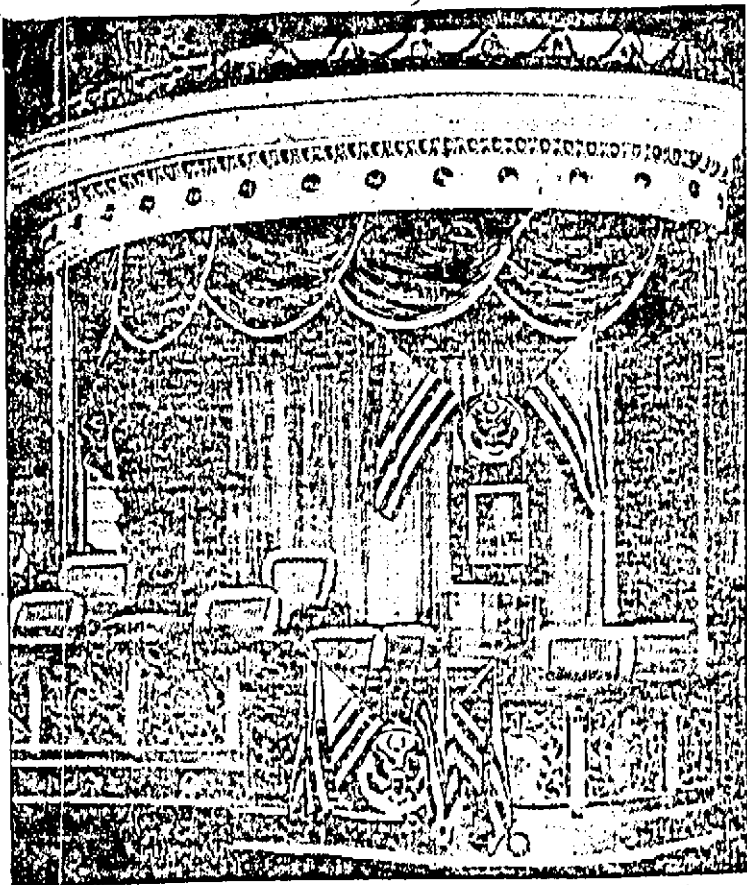

Young Italian Shoots Three.

East Liverpool, O., May 2.—Rafael Fracca, a young Italian, is accused of shooting three persons, two of them fatally, Friday. The victims are: Christiana Pappademas, shot through the lungs; Rafael Conit, her sweetheart shot in the shoulder, and Pietro Nicolotta, shot in the back. The condition of the girl and Nicolotta is critical. Fracca was jealous of Conit.

Jumps from Eads Bridge and Dies.

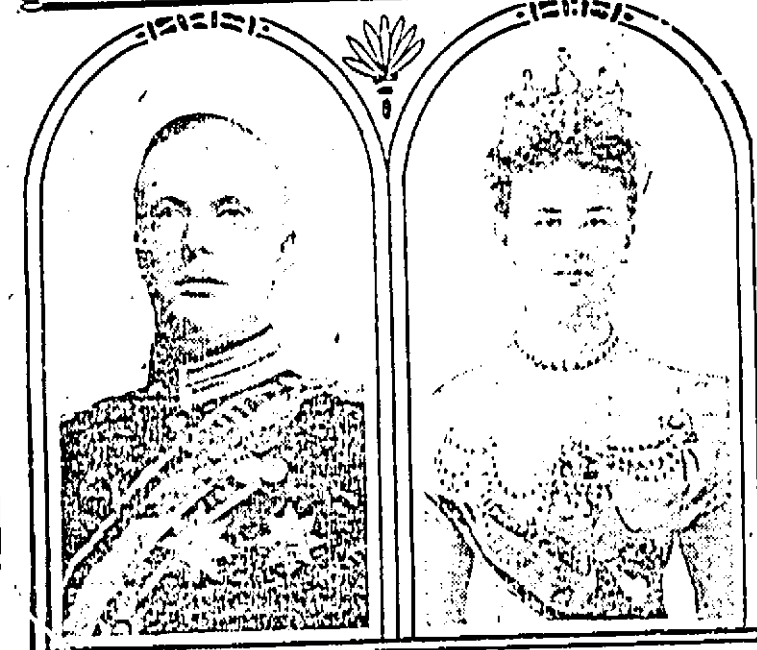

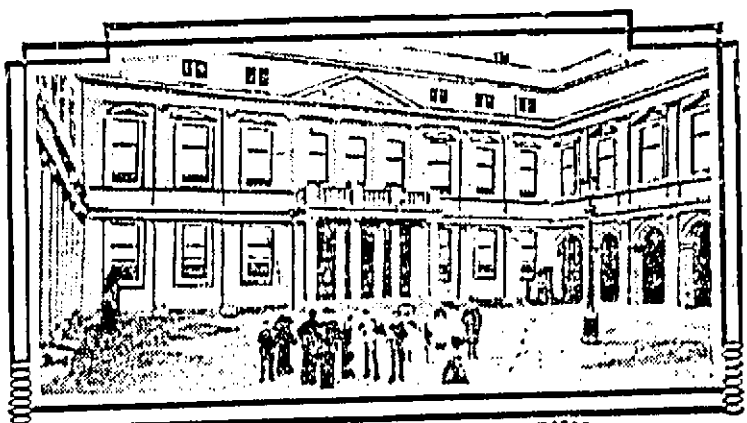

St. Louis, May 2.—Watched by a crowd which thronged Eads bridge, a well-dressed, unknown man leaped from the bridge into the Mississippi river Friday, floated about 50 feet with the current after he came to the surface, and then sank.

Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm in the advertising. A cherry spirit lessens the woes and cares of the day. Be pleasant. Advertise pleasantly.

BENEFICIAL TO ALL CONCERNED

Advertising Is 'A Help To User
As Well As Producer.

THE USER of goods is benefited by advertising, as well as the advertiser.

That advertised goods are usually, in fact almost invariably, better than unadvertised goods may be proved any day, by comparison and test of almost any article that can be purchased.

For instance, I purchased a pair of silk gloves, the other day and inquired for a certain, well-known advertised brand. "We are just out of those," said the saleswoman. "But today," she said, "we have a new lot. This is quite as good a glove." My most soul-rebels when that time-worn argument is advanced; but not wishing to be disagreeable, I purchased the goods recommended, though unnamed and unknown, paid the same price as for the favorite, variety, and went away, putting on the third finger hand to be contented that evening. Another finger was out the next day, and the third time worn, the right glove tore down the middle of the palm, although put on with care. I was too much disgusted to take them back, which was not quite fair to the merchant; but anyone who supposes I would purchase any glove but the advertised one, next time, supposes wrong. Not because the glove is advertised, but because it is better.

Is this a coincidence, this better quality of the advertised? Not a bit of it. Advertised goods MUST be better, or all the immense amount of money expended for advertising would be thrown away. The man who made the poor glove and did not advertise, can better afford to lose a customer than the man who makes the advertised article, for the former would only lose customers, but have his advertising bills to pay, just the same.

Moreover, the man who advertises sells more goods—far more—therefore he can afford to make his goods better. Thus he not only makes new customers, and keeps them, but keeps the old customers, as well.

"Ah, I will make the goods better, and yet not advertise," thinks someone. All very wise, but you can't. You cannot afford to increase the cost of manufacturing unless you increase the demand for your goods. The kind of demand that results from undervalued goods is quite too slow—this has been demonstrated time and again.

The manufacturer who is advertising or the dealer who is advertising is increasing his running expenses by the cost of advertising, but he is increasing his business to a degree that makes the advertising expense look very small, provided he is advertising right. The public are even willing to pay the cost of his advertising, in a justly distributed increase of the price for the sake of getting the goods which really are better. They can be shown, in that self-same advertising, that the goods ARE better, and will shown why they are better, and will believe it best when they have tried and seen for themselves. They will even help to advertise the goods, cheerfully, by their recommendation to friends and neighbors.

The problem, therefore, resolves itself to this: The manufacturer and the dealer who sell good goods must advertise to create demand.

FOR 1908 are nine handsome models, all pictured on this page; a model for every stout woman—tall and stout, short and stout, or just "fat and dumpy." And there's a price to suit every purse.

At $3.00 The old favorites, Nos. 312 and 314, of which nearly a million pairs were sold in 1907; and for women who want the new "slender-hip" effect are the two new "Plating-Back" models, Nos. 318 and 320, at the same price—$3.00.

At $5.00 Somewhat finer are the Mercerized Brocaded Corsets, Nos. 516 and 518; the French Couture Corsets with bust supporters, No. 515; and the beautiful new "Plating-Back" model, No. 517—all these at $5.00.

At $10 For women of luxurious tastes, who have paid $15 to $25 for imported corsets, is the superb No. 1000, with "Plating-Back" and the new "Duplex Straps," at $10.00. This is the finest corset that can be made—superior in every respect to the best that come from France. It will do wonders for any stout figure, giving it the graceful lines of youth.

Economy Our enormous output of Self-Reducing Corsets insures stout women a saving of at least one-half what they are accustomed to pay. One Nemo Self-Reducing Corset, at $3.00, will outwear three average $1.00 corsets.

UNITE TO HELP BUSINESS OF ALL

NATIONAL PROSPERITY ASSOCIATION IS FORMED.

STARTED BY ST. LOUIS MEN

Organization Whose Platform is Stated as "A Square Deal and a Square Meal for Every Man."

St. Louis, May 2.—A business organization to be known as the National Prosperity Association of St. Louis, has been formed as the result of a conference held by business men here during the past three days, and Friday night a formal address was issued to the business interests of the country.

It is proposed to extend the ramifications of the association throughout the country for the betterment of all classes of business. It is stated that the association has for its object the encouragement of the return of prosperity and uplifting of business interests generally.

The officers comprise the executive committee and they are Chairman E. C. Simmons, formerly president of the St. Louis Hardware company, and Vice-Chairman W. K. Bixby, formerly president of the American Car and Foundry company.

Purpose of the Association. In the formal address it is set forth that the purpose of the National Prosperity Association of St. Louis are: To keep the dinner-pail full, to keep the pay-roll going, to keep the factory busy, to keep the workmen employed, to keep the present wages up.

The address continues: "The National Prosperity Association of St. Louis has nothing to do with the past. It looks forward. It is not political. It has a platform. The two planks are a square deal and a square meal for every man."

"There is nothing fundamentally wrong with the business situation. The financial clouds have rolled by. The crop prospects—that basis of all things for all of us—are exceptionally good."

Time for Prosperity is Now.

"We believe we can get back to normal conditions quickly if we will. We do not see why we should wait for the closing months of 1908 or for the spring of 1909. We have passed the low level. The commercial sun is shining. This is the business May day. The time for this movement is ripe right now. It was not ripe before. The St. Louis movement may spread to other communities. We hope it will. The prosperity we promote is national."

"The plans and methods of the National Prosperity Association of St. Louis are available to any business organization or any individual anywhere. Our association will welcome any helpful suggestion to increase its efficiency."

"We are confident that if the business men of the United States join in the St. Louis movement prosperity will be at full tide before the end of the year, that 1909 will be the best business year our country has known."

OKLAHOMA TOWN BURNED.

Lawless Element in Verden Start Fire in Revenge.

Anadarko, Okla., May 2.—A supposed attempt of the lawless element in the little town of Verden, nine miles east of here, to take revenge on City Marshal Gillespie for his policy of strict law enforcement resulted in an incendiary fire which destroyed the principal business section of the town, burning a general merchandise store, the First National bank, a grocery, hardware, drug and harness store, and causing a loss of $50,000.

The fire was discovered Friday forenoon in the grocery store of Protzman & Co., owned by Marshal Gillespie. Recently there have been numerous threats against Gillespie for his strict enforcement of the laws and many expected that he might meet with personal violence.

Minister Named for President.

Rock Island, Ill., May 2.—The United Christian party held its national convention Friday afternoon and nominated Rev. Daniel H. Turney of Decatur, Ill., for president, and L. S. Conlin of Fort Dodge, Ia., for vice-president. The platform declares for the doctrine of the golden rule as the basis of all laws and upholds female suffrage. Mrs. Laura Nixon presided.

New York, May 2.—Announcement was made Friday night that Charles J. Morse, former vice-president of the National Bank of North America, has with his friends turned over to Charles A. Hanna, receiver of the suspended institution, nearly $250,000 in cash and securities in settlement of close to $500,000 of the bank's claims against Mr. Morse.

CLEVELAND MAY HAVE CAR STRIKE

CONDUCTORS AND MOTORMEN VOTING ON PROPOSITION.

DEMAND WAGE INCREASE

New Holding Company Repudiates Old Concern's Agreement—Labor Troubles in Several Other Cities.

Cleveland, O., May 2.—The conductors and motormen of the local street railway Friday night began a vote upon the proposition of calling a general strike. This crisis came late in the day when President Dupont of the Municipal Traction company refused the demands of the employees, who asked for a wage increase of two cents an hour.

It was contended by the employees that the new company now operating the local lines with a three-cent fare is under contractual obligations to grant the raise in wages, as the old Cleveland Electric Railway company, to become effective upon settlement of the general street railway controversy. The holding company officials deny that they are bound by any agreement made with the employees by the old company. The new company did, however, grant an increase of one cent an hour last Wednesday, the day the low rate of fare was established.

A strike of 100 trucklayers began Friday, following a reduction of two cents an hour in their wages. This wage order affected 300 men.

Toledo Horseholders Out.

Toledo, O., May 2.—Because the proprietors of horse-drawn shops in the city decided to use only machine-made shoes hereafter, 50 union horseholders, representing 15 shops, quit work Friday, refusing to handle machine-made goods. The open shop policy was adopted by 19 shops.

Strike in Springfield, Ill.

Springfield, Ill., May 2.—Most of the carpenters of the city are locked out and work is suspended in the planning mills of the city and on buildings where carpenters are at work, owing to the refusal of the contractors and mill-owners to accede to the demand of the carpenters' union for an increase of wages from 40 to 50 cents per hour. The contractors and mill-owners offered to compromise on 45 cents, but the union refused this offer.

Strike in Frisco Wagon Shops.

San Francisco, May 2.—A strike involving 650 employees of 200 carriage and wagon shops was called Friday by local union No. 6 of the carriage and wagonmakers in connection with a stop taken Wednesday night to compel the employers to sign a new agreement for the next year, maintaining hours and wages as they have been in the past. The working agreement between the union and the employers expired Thursday and the employers have adhered to their resolution to not renew their contract for another 12 months. The point at issue is solely the open shop.

Fatal Automobile Accident.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 2.—Samuel T. Bailey of Camden, president of the Farr & Bailey company, manufacturers of oil cloth, was killed and his wife and J. H. Tripp, their chauffeur, were severely hurt in an automobile collision with an electric train on the Pennsylvania railroad Friday. The Baileys were returning from Cape May to Camden when their automobile was run down by an electric train on a crossing at May's Landing.

Woman Sues for Treasure Trove.

Appleton, Wis., May 2.—While plowing on his farm near New London recently, Louis Hoffman unearthed a pot of gold said to amount to $30,000. Hoffman had just purchased the farm from Mrs. John Schmall, and Friday she started suit to recover the gold, saying she sold only the farm.

Prominent Railroad Man Dies.

New York, May 2.—L. P. Farmer, chairman of the Trunk Line association and a prominent railroad man, died suddenly at his home here Friday. His death is believed to have resulted from apoplexy.

THE HEAVENS IN MAY.

By Professor Doellittle, Astronomer of the University of Pennsylvania.

Venus now the most brilliant object in the Heavens. On May 29th it will be visible in full daylight.

The brilliant Dog-star and the great winter groups of Taurus and Orion have now disappeared in the west, and the beautiful I-crow Dog-star and the bright group Gemini are so closely following them that they, too, will only remain visible for another month. The sun in his slow eastward motion has drawn so near to the brilliant region of the sky that soon these stars will only be above the ground in the day-time and will, therefore, be invisible to us. The bright spring group Leo has so far to the east that it is now high up in the heavens and will not entirely disappear until next August. In early times the sun entered this constellation a month earlier than it does now, and therefore passed through it during the time of greatest heat in summer. Then the lions of the desert sought the valley of the Nile to escape the great heat, and it is thought that from this the name of the constellation was derived.

Across the whole southern sky there now stretches the great Water-snake, bearing on his back the Cup and the unfortunate Crow, who, according to the legend, is doomed, though so near the Cup, to perpetual thirst, being prevented by Hydra from drinking from it. From this legend came the belief in the folk lore that the water snake among all the birds did not enter water to its young. Above Hydra may be seen the very large group of Virgo, the Serpent Holder, with the Serpent, Hercules and Bootes. On one side of the last is the beautiful Northern Cross, or Arcturus's Crown, and on the other the delicate little group known as Hercules's Hair. Both of these constellations are filled with important of enormous antiquity, mentioned in the Book of Job as the Crooked Serpent, and known to the Babylonians as a monster personifying primal chaos, which was finally overcome by a great god driven with such force into his open jaws that it split him in two. In North temperate

One day 9 hours after this time it passes out in full brightness, being then of magnitude 3.5, the period being 5 days 9 hours. Similarly, the star at N varies from the 4.5 to 3.5 magnitude, the interval from least to greatest brightness and interesting double-star systems, many of which are visible in a small telescope. It was just south of the Star E that in 1806 a remarkable new star appeared, which for eight days remained brighter than the Pearl of the Crown at A, then sank suddenly to the 10th magnitude, and gradually brightened to the 8th. It is still visible as a yellow, variable, eighth magnitude star.

THE CONSTELLATION DRACO.

This is the best month of the year to trace out the long constellation Draco, which, as Vergil wrote, "Hides away with tortuous windings around and between the Bears."

As now known, the head of the Dragon is marked by the four bright stars at H, the body extending after various convolutions to the tip of the tail at U, but to the early Chaldeans it was even much longer, surrounding both of the bears and extending downward and in front of the larger of these. It is a group completely around the circle in 25,800 years. It has now reached a position near Polaris, so that this is our present North Star; in 2300 years, that is about the year 4200, it will have reached the bright star at G, and after 12,000 years have passed away it will be near the

VARIABLE STARS.

There are several most interesting variable stars which will repay observation. Two of the brightest of these are at L and N (Fig. 1), both of which vary slightly more than one full magnitude in brightness. The former is faintest on May 7, 1 A. M., and May 18, 6 P. M.; it is then of only the 5th magnitude. One day 9 hours after this time it passes out in full brightness, being then of magnitude 3.5, the period being 5 days 9 hours. Similarly, the star at N varies from the 4.5 to 3.5 magnitude, the interval from least to greatest brightness being three days 2 hours, and the complete period 12 days 22 hours. The star is faintest May 7, 1 P. M., and May 15, 5 P. M. The way in which the light of these stars may be seen from Figs. 3 and 4. The stars at L, R and T, instead of suddenly brightening, have their light suddenly cut down about one magnitude at intervals of two or three days by the passage of a dark body between us and the bright star. The variation of the light of the first of these is shown in Fig. 5.

THE PLANETS.

The beautiful evening star Venus, now the most brilliant object in the heavens, will pass from Taurus into Gemini during

ing the month. It is rapidly changing in form to a narrow crescent. On May 29 it will attain its greatest brilliancy and should be easily visible in full daylight.

Mars also moves eastward among the stars during the month, but more slowly than Venus. It may be detected as a faint, reddish star low down in the west, but it is now entirely too far from the earth to be observed with advantage in the telescope.

Jupiter is moving very slowly eastward in the constellation Cancer, and throughout the entire month will be in excellent position for observation.

WILL THIS AFFECT JANESVILLE CLUBS?

According to a Milwaukee Paper
Drinking Privileges May Come
High This Year.

According to a Milwaukee newspaper, R. P. Hutton, field secretary of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league, steps are going to be taken to make
it cost something for clubs to sell liquor without a regular license. In Janesville there are several clubs
which have only government licenses
which sell to members only. Mr. Hutton
is quoted as saying:

"It is probable that Milwaukee
clubs will be obliged to give up their sale of liquor as clubs or pay $25 a day license to the United States government for a federal license," said
R. P. Hutton, field secretary of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league, yesterday. "Unless they sell liquor over a regular bar."

"I have just been informed today
of a new ruling from the internal revenue department which makes a corporation that sells liquor either get out a new license (which costs $25)
every time a new member is admitted to the corporate body, or an old
member dies, or if it is in a wet town,
makes it necessary to have a licensed saloonkeeper run the bar."

"This ruling will do away with the scheme of saloonkeepers in 'dry'
towns by which when their saloons
were voted out of existence have established so-called clubs and furnished customers with coupon books
making it possible for all who became 'club members' to get his drinks as conveniently as when he bought them over the bar of a saloon.
"It is considered that the change
of membership of the corporation by the admission of new members or the retiring of old ones makes a new corporate body, and that is the reason that a new $25 license will be demanded each time the membership is changed."

Mr. Hutton said yesterday that he was pleased with the progress the fight against the liquor traffic had made in the state. He says that from Madison to Lancaster on the Chicago
& North-Western railway, a distance of ninety miles, there is but one saloon. From Janesville to Gratiot, a distance of sixty miles, on the same road, there is but one, and the ladies
do not ever buffet cars on these lines. From Madison to Beloit, fifty-five miles, but one saloon exists. In 4,000 square miles of territory, which includes Iowa, Lafayette, Rock, Green and a part of Rock and Grant
counties but five saloons exist.

At Meeting Held Here by Southern Wisconsin Librarians
Yesterday.

In the Carnegie library yesterday morning and afternoon twenty-one librarians from the southern part of the state met to talk over and discuss their work. Miss Elliott, instructor of the library school at Madison, called the meeting to order at ten o'clock in the morning. The program included talks from each librarian regarding the work which was being done in the library in which she was interested,
each talk being followed by a discussion and a comparison of methods and results.

Meetings were held in the morning
and afternoon, the second one closing
at four in the afternoon.

The cities represented included Beloit, Fort Atkinson, Stoughton, Delaware, Edgerton, Elkhorn and Broadhead.
The date of the next meeting, which is to be held in Beloit, will be determined by a committee consisting of Miss Bell of Beloit, Miss Nichols of Fort Atkinson and Miss Skavlen of Janesville.

DIPLOMACY SURELY HIS LINE.

Bridegroom Knew the Value of a Few Honeyed Words.

They sat in the express, billing and cooling. Now and again they would shake themselves like damp dogs and tiny particles of rice would scatter on the carpet.

"Sweetheart," said the bridegroom
at length, speaking in tender but manly tones—"sweetheart, would you mind
if I went into the 'smoker' for a bit?"
She pouted.

"What?" she exclaimed. "To smoke,
love?"

"No, no, no, no!" he assured her.
"I may smoke, but that is not why I wish to leave you. I only want to suffer for a brief space the agony of absence from your side so that I may subsequently experience the intense
joy of my return."

"She smiled sweetly and watched him
depart with a pale-purple lovelight in her eyes. And he, no less the eager he had been longing for during the last two hours, smiled profoundly and wondered why he was not in the diplomatic service.—Tattler.

C. BARTLETT LEASES
EVANSVILLE HOTEL

H. H. Hille Delivered Postseason Yesterday Morning—Lease Is for Five Years.

Evansville, May 1.—The change in the proprietorship of the Central hotel took place at ten o'clock last evening, when H. H. Hille delivered over the management to Chas. Bartlett, who has leased the property for a period of five years. Mr. Hille has leased a fine hotel which is now being built in Madison, and will take possession as soon as the structure is finished, which will be about the first of July. Mr. Hille is a general favorite with the traveling public and will no doubt meet all of his old friends
in his new home and it is needless to say that success will be his. While Mr. and Mrs. Hille will be greatly missed by their Evansville friends
they are to be congratulated to have so efficient successors as Mr. and Mrs.
Bartlett. Mr. and Mrs. Hille expect to leave on an extended pleasure trip soon.

A large number attended the reception given by Rev. and Mrs. D. Q.
Griffith last evening. Their home looked exceedingly pretty decorated with ferns, red roses, and red and white carnations. A decidedly pleasant feature of the event was the plau-
and vocal selections which were rendered throughout the evening.
Mrs. V. A. Astor, Miss Edna Finn and Mark Webb favored the company with very pleasing solos. Miss Beth Baler and Miss Barbara Pearson presided
at the punch bowl while the Misses Mildred Emery, Florence Seales and Jessie Kingston served in the dining-room. That all enjoyed the occasion to the limit was shown by the fact that it was a late hour before the last glasses were said.

W. H. Owen, who at present is living in the John Devereaux house on Main street, was taken suddenly very ill with heart trouble yesterday, but
is reported better today.

R. M. Antek left yesterday on a business trip to Des Moines, Ia.

Miss Daisy Shogger, who has been visiting relatives in Madison, since Tuesday will return this evening.
The Calumet postoffice has been discontinued and the mail which has heretofore gone through that office
will now come to the Evansville postoffice and be sent to the former patrons of the Calumet office by rural carrier route No. 20. This change takes effect May first.

Dr. Josie Oensick, who has been spending the winter in Freeport, is visiting local friends today.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolbert Jones welcomed a little daughter at their home
yesterday, April 30.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Winston spent Thursday in Janesville.

Mrs. Carl Minch of Belleville is a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs.
Fred Knize.

H. A. Langdon returned Thursday evening from a two days' business trip to Chicago.

Mrs. Frank Holmes went to Madison yesterday for a brief visit to Mrs.
St. Dubois.

Ivy Lindhart is spending a few days
with relatives in Milton.

Miss Rita Hubbard will go to Brooklyn tomorrow evening for a brief visit.

The Tourist club will hold their next meeting Tuesday evening, May 5, at the home of Miss Pearl Van Vleet.

CITY BEAUTIFUL IS

Fort Atkinson Residents to Form Outdoor Art Association to Beautify City.

Fort Atkinson, May 1.—Citizens of Fort Atkinson are agitating the organization of an Outdoor Art association, which will seek to enhance the natural beauty of the city and eliminate objectionable features, such as the loads of refuse which are dumped on the banks of the Rock and Rock rivers. The projected organization will aim to restore the beauty of the rivers and will encourage the planting of flowers along the walks
in the city parks.

P. H. Kulek of Watertown is trying to interest owners of gasoline
launches and motor boats in Fort Atkinson and Jefferson in the building
of a marine railway over the mill dam
at Jefferson, so as to permit boats, running down the Rock river as far as Indian Ford, a distance of about fifty-five miles from Watertown. There is much enthusiasm over the project and the boat owners of Fort Atkinson and Jefferson are looking upon it with favor.
The marine railway is quite likely to materialize at no distant date.

Fort Atkinson will hold its next monthly stock fair on Saturday, May 24. A large number of horse buyers from Minneapolis, Chicago, Milwaukee and western points will be present.

The Kent Manufacturing company
reports the sale of over eight hundred cow stalls in the past week, besides a large number of stanchions. The stalls are being shipped to leading dealers in Massachusetts, Michigan, Iowa, and Wisconsin, and are proving a big success. The company is actively engaged in pushing the cow stall,
as well as their other products and is building up a business which will be of great benefit to the city.

Nealon With Sacramento Team.

Pittsburgh Pirates, will play first base
for the Sacramento team in the California league this season.

Late Fashions.

All the gray colors of the season are charmingly set forth in parasols, as
the recent mandate of fashion declares that costume and parasol must match. There are changes, else how would the manufacturer live? The embroidered linen parasol which has held such undisputed sway for two seasons past, is now relegated to a second position, due to the charm of Pampandor and brocade silk parasols.
The first named comes in large dis-
signs in pink or rose color; the latter in delicate hues and less pronounced figures, often diversified by narrow black satin stripes. These two styles are undoubtedly leaders at the same time, each of them in two colors,
with borders of plain material, or plain-colored silk parasols trimmed
with checked ribbon are less comple-

the colors and patterns shown in them
silks has made them first favorites
with modest women. Odd Louis coats of wide striped designs in two shades
of the same color are worn with gowns
of the plain silk in matching tone, or
with skirts of silk viol or Marquisette
while the polka dot patterns are made up in similar combinations. Only those with the name woven in the sleeves are selected by fashionable modistes.

Lingerie Dresses.
These continue in high favor, with somewhat more of the Princess effect
than heretofore, as trimmings of a special kind form a straight line from the neck to the lower edge of the skirt. English embroidery, tucks, ruffles, or insertions with the addition of insets of flat lace or Irish

crochet, are arranged in a thousand different ways. An especially handsome dress shows deep points of English embroidery falling over tucks
and insets in aquares, set on the polka. Pale blue or pink lingerie dresses are also charming, and colored slips under white, convey a subtle effect.

Other Novelties.
A very attractive novelty is a circular hand in Persian colors between white borders, which being put to advantage the beautiful shadow which mark this color combination. Light-hearted Persian borders on white are particularly attractive. Hand-embroidered parasols will be used, or
those decorated with hand-painting,
but these have also given place to newer styles. A handsome white silk parasol shows a border of large layered roses, with a cluster of roses around the top. Lace of all kinds in black or white remain standard, and the snowy chiffon will only
be used this season for afternoon
drives.

Colors And Handles.
Red was never more prominent in plain parasols, and rose pink or blue
are favorites. Brown, especially golden brown, is markedly popular. In dress goods and in parasols as well.
Of course white holds its own, and a few of eyelid work are shown by reliable houses. Handles are of leatherwood, and in silk cord and tassels are the invariable appendage of high-class parasols. On plain grades, a rosette
on handle and top are used.

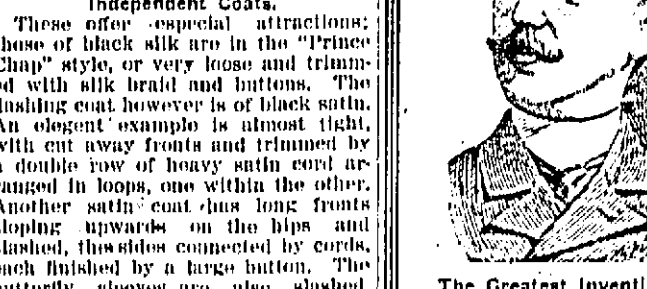

Shoes That Match Costumes.
Fashionable women are buying foot
wear made of the new Chrome tanned glazed kid which is not only soft and finished with a beautiful lustre, but
is also impervious to dampness, so that shoes of this kid do not stretch
when wet and are restored to their original color and lustre, when the grime is removed with a damp cloth.

Independent Coats.
These offer especial attractions;
those of black silk are in the "Princess" style, or very loose and trimmed with silk braid and buttons. The dashing coat, however, is of black satin.
An elegant example is almost light,
with cut away fronts and trimmed
with a double row of heavy satin cord
arranged in loops, one within the other.
Another satin coat has long fronts
sloping upwards on the hips and stashed, the sides connected by cords, each finished by a large button. The butterfly sleeves are also slashed,
and showing a ruffled lace sleeve beneath. Deep position back, with small passenger's hand, holding the platts
in position.

Another Style.
A stylish satin coat has no sleeves,
but a wide satin fold is attached to the armholes by short cords, very close together, each terminating in a satin button. The larger proportion of satins have no trimming except on the sleeves. The simplest coat, yet on view, is of the black cloth, trimmed with fancy silk braid and buttons at back and front.

Silks.
The Spring and Summer of 1908
promises to be a notable silk season.
Fountains in bordered styles and chevron
stripes are fashionably endorsed,
and a whole legion of roughly woven
silks are bidding for popular favor.
Nothing is at once so elegant and practical as a costume of "Rajah" for

REVEREND VAUGHAN
DECIDES ON SUNDAY

Baptist Divine May Conclude to Withdraw His Resignation At Request of Church Members.

At Sunday morning's service, Reverend Richard M. Vaughan will make the announcement of his decision to withdraw his formal resignation tendered last Sunday. Reverend Vaughn made his formal announcement
that owing to ill health he must hand
in his resignation as pastor of the Janesville church last Sunday. On Thursday evening, at a meeting of the church, it was unanimously voted to renew him to reconsider his determination and remain in Janesville.
Friends of Mr. Vaughan believe that he will decide to remain but will be granted an extended leave of absence
in which to recuperate, spending the summer in the west and returning to Janesville in the fall. Mr. Vaughan is himself non-committal as to his announcement and will not make it public until tomorrow.

Put This Stove in Your Kitchen

It is wonderfully convenient to do kitchen work on a stove that's ready at the instant wanted, and out of the way the moment you're done. Such a stove is the New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove. By using it you avoid the continuous overpowering heat of a coal fire and cook with comfort, even in dog-days. The

NEW PERFECTION Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove

is so constructed that it cannot add perceptibly to the heat of a room; the flame being directed up a retaining chimney to the stove top where it is needed for cooking. You can see that a stove sending out heat in but one direction would be preferable on a hot day to a stove radiating heat in all directions. The "New Perfection" keeps a kitchen uniformly comfortable. Three sizes, fully warranted. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY (Incorporated)

REPRESENTATIVE GEORGE FOSS AND SENATOR HOPKINS.

Chicago, Ill.—Senator Albert J. Hopkins of Illinois is likely to have a strenuous fight on his hands for reelection this year. It is rumored that Representative George E. Foss of the Evanston-Lakeview district will soon be an avowed candidate for the senate.

If Mr. Foss decides to go into the contest for the senate he may stir up a lively campaign. He is in a particularly fortunate position because he has been nominated for the house and he has his district solidly behind him. No one would ask him to resign until after the result of the August primaries had been announced.

Most people do not understand that George Edmund Foss has broken all records as a representative from the city of Chicago. He has served 12 years in the house of representatives and is now well along in his seventh term. No other representative from Chicago has ever served so long continuously. This makes Mr. Foss a valuable asset to the Illinois delegation with the exception, of course, of Speaker Cannon himself, who, however, is not now on the floor.

He will be 45 years old this year, is a Harvard graduate, and was admitted to the bar in Chicago in 1889. In the last election Mr. Foss had a plurality of over 10,000 votes, so that he is living undoubtedly on easy street as far as reelection is concerned.

As this is to be the first primary, when the people will have a chance to express their preference directly for senator, the personality of candidates will have a good deal to do perhaps with the results. Representative Foss has quite a reputation throughout the country as a public speaker. When he ran for congress for his first time in 1891, President Cleveland was in office and the Democrats were in control of both houses of congress.

No one had any idea of the tremendous Republican landslide which was to take place in the November elections of that year. Foss was swept into congress with scores of other Republicans from the doubtful districts.

And They Usually Fail. Too many young people depend on their father's money taking them through this world, and their mother's prayers making everything right in the next.—Atlantic Globe.

Making it Personal. A critic once said to Whistler, the painter, that a certain picture Whistler was displaying wasn't good. "Don't say it isn't good," replied Whistler, "say you don't like it."

Auto Accidents in Moonlight. An examination of serious automobile accidents in the last year shows that over 100 happened at night, half of them when the moon was shining brightly. Of these probably 25 were brought on by optical illusions caused by the moon's deceptive light.

CHAPTER XV.

WHEN Christobal descended to the saloon he found Elsie holding the excited dog. It was instantly perceptible that she was not aware of the grave position of affairs on deck. She knew, of course, that the Alencor menace had become active again, but the first attack had been beaten off so easily that she was sure this later effort would fail.

The dog was better informed. His alert ears told him that there were strange beings on board. He struggled so resolutely that Elsie freed him just as the Spaniard reached the foot of the stairs. Forgetting his wounded paw and all a-quiver with the fine courage of his race, Joey galloped up the companion and disappeared. Elsie was much distressed by her four-footed friend's useless pugnacity.

"I could not keep him back," she said, "and I am afraid he runs some risk of being hit. Do you think he will go to the chart house? That is so exposed. Captain Courtney is not there, is he?"

"No, I left him a moment ago close to the saloon entrance."

She listened intently. Her imagination led her astray. It was so hopeless, so on the wrong tack.

"There does not appear to be so much about throwing now, but I suppose I ought not to go on deck," she cried.

"It is not to be thought of, Miss Maxwell. Indeed, the captain asked me to come and bear you company."

"Just fancy those horrid Indians venturing to approach the ship tonight after the dreadful lesson they received this afternoon! And what will poor Senator Suarez say? He was so positive that they would never come near us after dark."

"I saw him also on the promenade deck," answered Christobal quietly. "He had very much the semblance of a false prophet."

The Spaniard meant to meet grin fate with a jest on his lips. He had seen Suarez lying dead or insensible close to the rails. In fact, the unlucky Argentine was only separated by the thickness of the ship's deck from the table near which Elsie was standing. Unless he were speedily rescued he would bleed to death.

"Ah, I heard Joey barking. He has gone off," cried Elsie. "And what is that?" she added, moving suddenly toward the center of the saloon. She had caught the fierce hiss of steam, and she was well aware that steam would only be brought into use if the Indians were endeavoring to climb the ship's sides. Not yet had it occurred that they could possibly be on board.

"Some of our friends the enemy have come near enough to be scolded," said the man coolly. "That should soon drive them away. You are not frightened, I hope?"

"Not a bit. My only regret is that I am not permitted to help in the defense. It must be likewise for you, Dr. Christobal, to be stationed here when the ship is in danger. I am certain you would prefer to be up there with the others."

"Thank you for saying that. I wish you were able to read all my thoughts accurately."

His right hand went to the pocket in which he had placed the revolver. The stock appeared to have a peculiar clamminess as his fingers closed around it. Though he was proud of the iron nerve which had won him his reputation in his profession, he almost prayed now that it might not fail him at the last. What a horror, to be compelled with his parting glance to see this bright and graceful woman crumple up on the deck!

Spasms

St. Vitus' Dance

Many persons who suffered untold agonies from epilepsy, fits, spasms, and St. Vitus' Dance are today well. The strengthening influence of Dr. Miles' Nervine upon the shattered nerves having restored them to perfect health.

"I endured agony that words cannot express from St. Vitus' dance, which followed a very severe spell of rheumatism. I doctored with a physician, but the more I took of his medicine the more I got. My mother's doctor cured me. After she had had a heart attack, she was as well as physically exhausted from constant care, by the advice of a neighbor she procured a bottle of Dr. Miles' Nervine. From the first dose to the last a continual change for the better was noticeable, and when I had taken eleven bottles I was well, and in robust health."

EDWARD L. DEAM,

North Manchester, Indiana.

"Our little boy Harry, had a severe case of St. Vitus' dance, and was doctored with many physicians, he continued to grow worse until he had ten seizures in one week. After that time our attention was called to Dr. Miles' Nervine. We began giving it to him. His improvement seemed slow, but when he had finished the fourth bottle the spasms had disappeared, and he had not been seen for two years. We shall always recommend Dr. Miles' Nervine."

Jo heard his mother's sounds from the fore part of the vessel. The revolver shooting had ceased, for the convincing reason there were no more cartridges. Courtney's double-barreled gun was being fired as quickly as he could reload it, and the sharp snap of one of the rifles in the Indians' possession was recognizable as coming from a hand to hand fight with nearly a score of savages. But Christobal knew that a deadly struggle was in progress on the fore deck. Tollenache, Frascuelo and three Chileans were engaged in a hand to hand fight with nearly a score of savages. The doctor could distinguish the cries of the combatants, the irregular stamping of boot soles.

He wondered why the girl, with her acute senses, did not grasp the significance of the yelling and tramping on the deck until it occurred to him, with a quick pang, that she was listening for one voice alone. Owing to her ignorance of the desperate nature of the conflict raging overhead she had ears for nothing further.

He placed a hand on her shoulder. She turned and looked at him. There was a gravity in his eyes which startled her.

"Elsie," he said, "you believe in the efficacy of prayer, don't you? Well, then, pray now a little. I shall be glad to think when this time of danger has passed that we owed something to your invocation."

It was in his mind that he must shoot her within a few seconds, and the immeasurable agony of the thought reflected itself in his face. He had no notion that she would give his words a more direct significance than he intended them to bear. But a strange, honing yell of triumph, the war cry of an Alencor leader who had hauled himself to the bridge and found it undefended, warned her in the same moment that all was not well with the defense.

She sprang toward the saloon stairs. "Do you hear that?" she cried in a ringing voice. "There are Indians on board. Come! We must not stay here when our friends are fighting for their lives."

"Christobal knew that this active girl would readily outstrip him in a race to the deck. She was already several feet distant, but he must detain her, no matter what the cost. If she fell into the clutches of the ghouls then overrunning the Kansas she might not be killed, but only wounded, and her sufferings would be inconceivable ere the end came."

"You are wrong," he shouted, with convincing vehemence, "but if you wish to see for yourself at least allow me to go first."

While he was speaking he ran forward. She thought he meant what he said and waited for him. Then he caught her right arm firmly in his left hand.

"Let us wait here a moment or two," he breathed.

"No, no! I am going now. You shall not hold me back. You don't understand. The man I love is up there, perhaps surrounded by savages. Let me go, I tell you! If he is dying I shall die by his side! Let me go!"

She turned on him like an angry goddess and strove to wrest herself from his grip. At that instant Tollenache and Frascuelo, the only survivors of the deadly struggle forward, were driven back by a rush of Indians. They caught sight of others leaping down the bridge companion.

"To the saloon, Courtney!" roared Tollenache, clearing a path for himself with an iron bar which he swung in both hands. Followed by Frascuelo, he jumped inside the saloon gateway. Four savages followed, two entering through the doorway behind him. One raised a hatchet-like implement and would have brained the Englishman had not Christobal whipped out his revolver and shot him through the body, releasing the girl's wrist in his hurry.

The Indian pitched headlong down the stairs, falling limply at Elsie's feet. She stooped over the terrifying figure and seized the man's weapon. Her eyes shone with a strange light. She felt her arms throb. A wonderful power seemed to flow through her body, like a gush of strong wine. She was assured that she, unaided, could beat down all the puny, despicable creatures who barred the path to her lover.

She vaulted over the writhing form of the Alencor and made to climb the stairs, but Christobal, admirably cool, stood again and brought another Indian to his knees. The second Indian's fall caused Frascuelo to trip, and the Chilean, locked with a somewhat sturdy opponent, rolled into the saloon. Elsie drew back just in time or the two men would have knocked her down. Even as they were turning over on the steep steps she saw Frascuelo's knife flash. At the foot of the stairs the Indian lay still, and Frascuelo tried to rise. She helped him gladly. The unwillingness of this killing no longer appalled her. Each dead or disabled Indian was one less obstacle between her and Courtney. A third time the revolver barked, but Christobal missed. It did not matter greatly, as Tollenache had shortened his bar, using it twice as a mine delver at a rock. But the doctor did not forget that he had only three cartridges left two of which were bespoken long before the fight began.

At last, then, the war was over. Elsie would have mounted the stairs, but an appealing hand detained her.

"I cannot walk, senorita. My leg has given way. And we can do no good there. They are all down."

A death chill gripped her heart at Frascuelo's words.

"All down!" she repeated, white lips.

"I think so," said he blankly. The man was dazed by the ordeal through which he had passed.

As if to answer and refute him, Joey's hysterical yell sounded from a point close at hand, and they distinctly heard Courtney's loud command:

"This way, Boy! Italy to the bridge!"

"You are mistaken!" shrieked Elsie, wrenching herself free from the Chilean's grasp.

The Indian pitched headlong down the stairs, falling limply at Elsie's feet.

Nothing short of violence would stop her now. Tollenache darted out into the darkness, and she mounted the steps two at a time. Christobal panted by her side. He was determined not to be parted from her. If necessary, he would drag her away from any doubtful encounter on the battlements of the deck. But his blood was aflame now with the heat of combat. He wished to die fighting rather than by a suicide's bullet.

They were not yet clear of the doorway when an extraordinary burst of cheering and shouts in English and Spanish assailed their wondering ears. The sounds seemed to come from the sea, from some point very near to the ship. A loud hubbub arose among the Indians. Courtney, clanking his gun, rushed past, with the dog at his heels, and ran up the bridge companion. They could follow his progress as he raced toward the port side, and they heard his amazed cry:

"What boats are those?"

"Your own, captain," came the answering yell, plainly audible above the din.

"That is Mr. Gray!" screamed Elsie, and she, too, ran toward the bridge, with the doctor close behind.

"Sink every canoe you can get alongside of and knock those fellows on the head who are swimming!" roared Courtney, who was so carried away by the fierceness of the fight from which he had just emerged that he would have given the same directions to the prelate angel Michael had that warrior spirit come to his aid.

He seemed to have eyes in the back of his head, he turned so suddenly when Elsie nerved him.

"Ah, thank God, you are safe!" he said, drawing her to him for an instant. "Stand there, dear heart!"

He placed her in the forward angle of the bridge rail and leaned out over the side. She understood that she must not speak to him then, but a great joy overwhelmed her, and her eyes melted into tears.

Christobal, who had missed no word of Elsie's frenzied protest in the saloon nor failed to note the manner of Courtney's greeting, seemed to take the collapse of his own aspirations with the unmoved stoicism he had displayed in the face of danger.

"The ship's boats," he began, but the captain raised his gun and fired twice at alongside the side of the vessel. Cries of pain and a good deal of splashing in the sea proved that he had expelled the departure of several Indians, who were perched on the rails beyond the reach of Walker's steam jet.

"The ship's boats," went on Christobal calmly, "have turned up in some mysterious manner, just in the nick of time. A few minutes more and they would have been too late."

Captain Hobson's brief experience in the house of representatives has shown his aggressive ability. He has taken up the cudgel for an enlarged navy and has gained the reputation of being "always on the job." The other day during the discussion, he became so interested that he neglected to go out for his dinner and rather than miss the afternoon's speech he sent out for a bottle of milk and drank this with all the eyes of the gallery fixed upon him.
